Soviet Reaction To Churchill's Speech Awaited

Former Prime Minister Of Great Britain Demands Immediate U. N. O. Test

DOES NOT BELIEVE WAR IMMINENT

NEW YORK, March 16.—(INS)—The world awaited Soviet reaction today to Winston Churchill's demand for an immediate U. N. O. test on Russian pressure against Iran and Turkey.

In his New York speech last night the former British prime minister bluntly challenged Russia to place its demands before the U. N. O. Security Council this month, accept its decisions and "thus take an honorable place in the van of the world organization."

Turkey In Limelight

The wartime member of the "Big Three" catapulted Turkey into the limelight by revealing that at Potsdam Russia demanded the right to establish a fortified base in the strategic Dardanelles Straits.

In his address before a dinner audience of 2,000 including two score representatives of foreign countries and heard by millions of American radio listeners, Churchill said:

"At Potsdam the American and British offered to Russia joint guaranty of the complete freedom of the Straits in peace and war. To this guaranty Turkey would gladly have subscribed."

"But we were told that that was not enough. Russia must have a fortress inside the Straits, from which she could dominate Constantinople (Istanbul)."

"But this is not to keep the Straits open but to give power of closing them to a single nation. This is out of harmony with the principle urged by U. S. representatives of

Telephone service was not interrupted and other employees remained at their posts.

Russia-Iran Case To Reach U. N. O. As Threat To Peace

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(INS)—Responsible sources said today that Iran's case against Russia will be presented to the forthcoming United Nations security council meeting as constituting a "threat to world peace."

Based on this charge, the case is expected to prove far more serious than the Iranian issue as given to the U. N. O. council meeting in London. Observers expected it to prove the first great test of the peace organization's authority which may try out Russia's willingness to abide by the council's decisions.

Red Cross Fund Reaches $26,710 At Second Report

Drive Enters Third Week With Over Half Of 1946 Quota Already Filled

CHAIRMAN URGES EXTENDED EFFORT

With the 1946 Red Cross fund campaign entering its third week, division chairman meeting in the Lawrence county chapter house Friday afternoon reported $26,710 already raised. This was the second report meeting of the current drive.

A number of divisions have not yet turned in reports, according to drive chairman Howard B. Cummings, and reports of several other sections are still incomplete. As yet, only one division is near its goal.

Urges Greater Effort

Workers and citizens of the community together were urged by Mr. Cummings to speed their efforts to put the drive across, for the sake of the local chapter whose work is mounting daily.

"The chapter calls on the community for aid only one a year," the chairman said, "whereas the Red Cross is on call 24 hours a day." The drive will continue throughout the month of March, with workers striving to fill the $42,800 local quota. For the county as a whole, including Ellwood City, the goal is over $52,000.

POLICE CHIEF IN ILLINOIS DENIES MURDER CHARGE

BENTON, Ill. March 16.—(INS)—Glenn Brown, 30-year-old police chief of Benton, Ill., today denied any knowledge of the circumstances under which Miss Mary Pasternock, night club waitress, was shot to death. Her body was found in a wooded section four miles west of Benton.

Brown, the father of three children, is held in the Franklin county jail on a murder warrant. Sheriff Clarence Smothers signed the complaint.

Smothers asserted that Brown had refused to take a lie detector test. Brown was formally placed under arrest after the woman's body was discovered by a passerby late Thursday. Miss Pasternock, who resided at Christopher, had been shot twice. One bullet entered the top of the left shoulder. The other had pierced the right breast.

The sheriff said an unidentified witness, whose name is withheld, reported that Brown was the last person to be seen with Miss Pasternock when she left a night club early Wednesday.

Coal Operators Preparing Reply To John L. Lewis

Head Of Miners Takes Four Days To Present Case Of Men's Welfare

WAGE DISCUSSION IS STILL DELAYED

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(INS)—Bituminous operators took advantage of a week end recess in the coal wage conference today to prepare a reply to John L. Lewis' "indictment" on the industry for "abominable practices" affecting the welfare of his miners.

Charles O'Neill, head of the Northern Appalachian operators, is expected to assume the major role Monday in presenting the mine owners' "defense" against Lewis' charge of inadequate health, medical and compensation benefits in the coal fields.

Actual closed-door bargaining for a 1946 soft coal wage contract will begin when both sides finish laying their cases before the public.

Lewis Used Four Days

O'Neill did not indicate how long the operators' presentation will take. Lewis used four days and Monday there will be only nine days left before the union can give five days' notice of termination of the existing contract—April 1.

Lewis concluded the miners' case with a solemn warning: "The mine workers have given me no final, arbitrary instruction yet as to what they will or will not do. But it is my opinion that they do not want to work for you gentlemen any more unless you remedy these conditions."

He said the miners hoped an agreement will be worked out "without any loss of production" and expressed belief that there is "still plenty of time" to negotiate a contract.

The UMW leader stated that he was presenting "no arbitrary formula" on shorter hours and higher wages, inviting the mine owners to make us an offer. He added that maybe we'll buy—caveat emptor.

The operators were urged to abandon

Charges Russia Fails To Carry Out Agreement

CHUNGKING, March 16.—(INS)—General Liu Fei, vice minister of Chinese nationalist military operations, charged today that Russia had failed to carry out an agreement to aid nationalist troops in the orderly occupation of Manchuria.

General Liu, speaking before the Kuomintang at Chungking, said that nationalist forces so far had taken over only about three per cent of Manchuria and that "many obstacles" complicate the task of completing the job.

Liu asserted the Russians had agreed to assist nationalist landings at Yingkou between Nov. 6-10, but when the nationalists arrived Nov. 6 they found Chinese communist forces in command of the Manchurian city on Liaotung gulf.

The general said the communists had entered the city Nov. 4 and that the Soviet communists refused to assist the nationalists to take control.

He disclosed that although Mukden now is occupied by nationalist forces, UNRRA spokesmen came up later with an amended answer.

Report 150 Are Killed Or Hurt In Berlin Blast

Headquarters Of German Civil Police In Russian Zone In Berlin Blows Up

CAUSE OF BLAST IS NOT REVEALED

BERLIN, March 16.—(INS)—One hundred and fifty persons were killed or injured today when a store of confiscated ammunition blew up and demolished the four-story headquarters of German civil police on the Alexanderplatz in the Soviet area in the center of Berlin.

The blast rocked the badly-damaged German capital and shattered windows throughout the main part of the city.

No List Of Casualties

No list of casualties was issued, and Russian guards barred correspondents and photographers from the scene on the grounds that further explosions were possible.

Early efforts to rescue injured persons trapped in the wrecked building were hampered by flames which swept the ruins.

The building was crowded with employees when the explosion occurred.

Observers noted that the blast came on "Wehrmacht Day," Hitler imposed conscription on the Reich on March 16, 1935.

The first official report said there were at least two known dead and forty injured, including 30 policemen. The statement added that "an undetermined number of dead are believed still buried in the rubble."

Earlier reports of the explosion on the Alexanderplatz indicated the casualty toll may reach 150.

Ammunition Lets Go
The official announcement by Chief of Police Paul Markgraf said the explosion, which let go shortly after eight o'clock this morning, apparently was caused by the confiscated ammunition and hand grenades.

Blames Shortages On OPA Muddling

President Of National Retail Dry Goods Association Makes Statement Today

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 16.—(INS)—Benjamin H. Namm, president of the National Retail Dry Goods association, today blamed "muddling" in the OPA for shortage of many commodities.

He told the Atlantic City Chamber of Commerce that Congress should amend the Price Control Act "so as to eliminate the harmful and restrictive measures which have brought the production and distribution of many necessities to a virtual standstill."

Namm said that in many cases "ersatz" merchandise has replaced the standard products. He added: "The blind determination of certain OPA officials to 'hold the line at any cost' already has cost the American people billions of dollars of lost income and in overpayment for inferior goods."

At the same time, he emphasized the necessity for continuing the battle against inflation.

various autonomous republics within the union. Stalin and his new government will be charged with carrying into effect the new Russian five-year plan which is designed to guard the nation against "monopolistic capitalism which breeds new aggression."

State Planning Commission Chairman Nicholas Voznesensky told the Supreme Soviet yesterday that under the new five-year plan the Red army, air force and navy would be equipped with the most modern weapons.

Production Plans

Voznesensky revealed that the planning commission expected Soviet production to achieve great strides by 1950. He forecast a production schedule for that year as:

Steel—Two billion, 594 million tons.
Coal—250 million tons.
Oil—35 million tons.
Electric Energy—82 million kilowatt hours.

Charge Money "Squandered"

The investigation was made in an effort to determine the truth or falsity of charges made in both houses of Congress last year that money was "squandered" in construction of the highway.

Robinson has pending in the House a resolution authorizing the appropriation of 25 million dollars to complete the road from the Mexican border to the Panama Canal.

McGregor said he favored making the funds available because "it will be a good investment in international friendship and an aid to the good neighbor policy."

The Ohioan expressed the view, however, that the road will never have any great military value.

been ascertained, will attend though her representative has not been named.

The case of Iran was expected to prove the most urgent and the most trying problem on the UNO calendar. It appeared certain that the dispute, set aside for individual negotiation between Iran and Russia at the recent London council meeting, could not come to a satisfactory conclusion before the meeting.

Officials in Washington generally endorsed the speech of former British Prime Minister Winston Churchill in New York in which he described the case of Iran as "special of those for which UNO was specially devised." Churchill recalled that Russian and British troops had moved into Iran only under a "solemn treaty" under which they were to have moved out by March 2.

Churchill noted that in violation of that agreement, Russia is reported actually to be moving more troops into Iran. By implication he made clear his belief that the purpose was to exact from Turkey concessions in regard to the strategic Dardanelles.

The Russian 35-mile advance came on the heels of the statement in which Gen. Ahmed Ahmedi, Iranian minister of war, charged that another Russian column was poised "at the very gates" of Tehran.

The war minister pledged that Iran would fight to the last man if the Russians marched in Tehran. (In London foreign office spokesmen discounted reports that an independent Kurdish republic had been established in Iran near the Turkish-Iraq frontier.)

General Ahmedi declared yesterday that not only the Iranian army but "every boy and girl" in the country would fight to protect the capital city from Russian encroachment.

freedom of the great water-ways of Europe.

Must Be Acted On By UNO

Churchill continued: "If Soviet Russia persists in putting pressure on Turkey, the matter must in the first instance be presented upon by the UNO Security Council."

"Thus early will come a very great test for the world organization on which so many hopes are founded." Churchill denied that in his recent Fulton, Mo., speech he sought a military alliance of Britain and the U. S. He said the only doubt regarding British-American relations was whether America and England can achieve close-knit harmony in time to avert a third world war, and continued:

"I do not believe that war is inevitable or imminent. I do not believe that the rulers of Russia wish for war at the present time."

The stormy petrel of world affairs refused to "withdraw or modify a single word" of the Missouri speech which drew an extraordinary denunciations reply from Soviet Generalissimo Stalin.

Asserting a high record for the people of Russia and deep recognition of their fortitude and suffering during the war, Churchill pointed to the forthcoming UNO Security Council meeting in New York by saying:

"There is a very good way in which they could brush aside any speeches which they dislike. It is a way open to them now in the next fortnight."

don their opposition to the unionization of mine workers. Lewis said this is no time for ultimatums, dictums, decrees and ukases. He said the miners "say your non-union foremen are killing too many of their comrades."

"The union chief" pulled no punches in his summation. In stern tones he observed that the thirteen million tons of coal mined last week "was smeared with the blood of 332 miners—33 killed and 1,288 injured." In a whisper he asked: "How many operators died in country club explosions?"

Lewis said there have been "endless probes" of mine disasters but "nothing is ever done about it." He told of a union fund raised for the families of 24 men killed at Pine Ridge, Ky., last December, remarking that only one mine official contributed.

With a deep scowl, Lewis boomed that "personally I'd like to cram that five dollar bill down his dirty, lousy, foul throat."

The veteran labor leader criticized Attorney Edward R. Burke, president of the Southern Coal Producers, for knowing "less about coal mining than I know of atomic energy." He condemned the operators "do-nothing philosophy," shouting: "Damn your philosophy! I think you've played that hard out. I want to do this time. The war is over. The industry is profitable and able to do something."

New Discharge Scores For Navy

WASHINGTON, March 16—(INS)—Navy plans today called for 26,000 officers and 307,000 enlisted personnel to leave the service by June 15 under new reduced critical point scores.

Effective May 15 through June 15 the reductions are in line with a previous announcement that all "exceptions" to the enlisted personnel point score system will be eliminated by June 2.

On that date, all male enlisted personnel having 24 points and all waves with 18 points will be eligible for separation. Reduction after that date will be at a uniform rate.

The scores for most male officers will drop to 34 on May 15, to 32 on June 2 and to 30 on June 15.

Male doctors scores will be 42, 40 and 39, respectively, on the same date.

Naval aviators in flight status above ensign's rank will have critical scores of 21, 20 and 20 on those dates, and naval aviators in flight status of ensign's rank will have 20-20-20 scores for all three dates.

Male enlisted personnel of general classification will have 26 on May 15, 24 on June 2, and 23 on June 15. Female enlisted personnel will range from 19 to 17. Female officers including nurses will have scores of 24, 23 and 22 for the three dates.

Flowers Aren't Luxuries In These Modern Times

There was a time when flowers were sent only upon special occasions. Those were the days of gas lights and horse and buggies. It was considered a touch of elegance to send flowers and it was done only upon special occasions.

It is still a touch of elegance, but an elegance that is a part of our modern way of life. Flowers are not luxuries now, they are a deft touch that marks the complete life. They add color, and life to the home, they speak the message you want delivered.

You never make a mistake when you send flowers, no matter the occasion. Fact is there doesn't have to be an occasion. Send them for a reminder of friendship.

Poor Mr. Public

We frequently hear the expression that the public will pay for the labor disturbances in a higher cost of living. The steel strike is a good example. The workers get an increase in pay, and the company gets an increase of $3 per ton in the cost of steel. This increase, because steel is a basic commodity, will result in a higher cost of living all the way up and down the line—and the consumers include steel workers as well as others.

But the public pays in another way, too. Because of a loss of profits the manufacturer can charge off losses on his 1945 and 1946 income taxes. And the worker will have fewer taxes to pay because he didn't earn money during the enforced idleness. This means that Uncle Sam will not collect as much money in the way of taxes in 1946 as he would have collected if reconversion had continued at a normal pace. This means, in turn, that unless he cuts expenditures sharply Uncle Sam will have to raise the tax rates or go further into debt. In either event the public pays again, because, after all, the public is the government.

In the meat industry the price of meat to the consumer is to go up at least one and a half per cent, because of increased costs of operation. It is recommended further, by the left-wingers, that in order to hold down the cost of living, made essential by higher labor costs, that the packers and other processors be paid subsidies. If this is done then the public, who pays the taxes, will be paying to the packers and other processors, in subsidies, the increased wages which were granted by the Federal fact-finding boards.

It is to be remembered that the subsidies are to be paid to processors to keep down prices to the consumer. They are not to be paid to the farmers to stimulate production, although increased production is the answer to higher prices. To say that the situation is confused is putting it mildly. But one thing is clear—the public always gets it in the neck.

Highway To Alaska

Waste and careless planning in wartime are illustrated by tentative plans to replace the abandoned highway from Edmonton to Alaska with one from Seattle to the northern territory. The abandoned road cost $115,000,000, the new one would cost $15,000,000. It would use a part of the route of the abandoned road.

The Edmonton artery is through country not passable in winter.
The proposed route from Seattle and Vancouver through British Columbia to the Yukon where it joins the old Alaskan highway would be possible every month of the year. It traverses a valley and is protected on the east by the Canadian Rockies and on the west by coastal ranges.

Pacific port cities oppose construction of the road. They fear it would reduce sea-borne traffic.

House And Home

Out of the recent convention of the American Association of Home
Builders in Chicago came very definite ideas on what the average American family wants in its new postwar abode. The builders came to the meetings armed with surveys taken by themselves and others and are preparing to follow the trends indicated when the construction throttle is opened wide.

All surveys pointed in the same direction: toward the livable little
"one-story house, unpretentious but well designed for family living. There is a marked revolt against the narrow city lot which has hemmed in so many families in the past. And John Normie, architectural editor of Better Homes and Gardens, said families queried in a survey made by his magazine practically all wanted lots of at least double the size of the one on which they are now living. One out of every five families interviewed said they wanted to move out into the country.

It is a healthy trend toward outdoor living and it will have an effect toward spaciousness, better appearance and happier citizenry in all the cities of the land.

Six Months Lost

The national administration took sudden action recently in providing for gray bread to find more wheat to send to the starving Europeans. At the same time former President Hoover was summoned to Washington for consultation by President Truman, to head a voluntary food movement to save supplies for Europe and Asia.

The American people have always been charitable and we hope always will be. They will do what they can to help ward off starvation in other countries of the world. Because of their very nature, a voluntary food-saving program will be much more effective in the United States than any kind which the government might try to impose. They realize that they will not be saving food for foreign enemies alone, but for former allies who will require the great percentage of the food we send abroad.

The pity of it is that the administration waited so long to act.
For months we read stories in the nation's press as to the coming situation in the old world when millions of people would be facing starvation.
Many leaders called attention to what was ahead. Six months ago Mr.
Hoover suggested that the time had come for the appointment of a food czar to get our larder in shape for the coming hard times when we would again be called on to help fight shortages at home and starvation abroad.
But nothing was done about it, and we had to wait until the crisis was upon us. Mr. Hoover is going to Europe for a 30-day study of the situation. Let us hope that he finds it is still not too late to avoid the major part of the damage.

Life For Castaways

Mae West will be interested, along with all the seagoing and air-going personnel of the Navy, to learn that the familiar life jacket which bears her name has been streamlined. The inflatable rubber raft not only is lighter and more comfortable than the wartime model, but it is equipped with night and day signaling apparatus.

The first samples are being tested by the U. S. S. Midway carrier task force en route to Arctic maneuvers. After a plane crash off the big carrier's bow a pilot and gunner were kept afloat in rough water until they could be rescued by a destroyer.

The new jackets are provided with several pockets. In them are a grenade which sends out a cloud of orange smoke visible for ten miles, two red fire balls visible at night for twenty miles, a mirror for sun signals, a radar reflector, a whistle with a special pitch and a chemical which creates a bright green area on the water which may be seen from an airplane.

Military Control Is Developing Into Issue

WASHINGTON, March 16. — A
group of senators gathered at lunch
one day this week for an earnest
discussion of what course to follow
when a bill to control atomic energy finally reaches the Senate floor. The Senate atomic energy committee had just approved, by a vote of 6 to 1, the so-called Vanderberg compromise giving a military liaison group the right to appeal to the president if the military
felt that national security was threatened by some action proposed
by the civilian commission which would have authority over atomic energy.

Among those at the lunch were Senators Reed, Fulbright, Myers and McMahon. Democrats, the latter being chairman of the Senate
atomic committee, and Senator Morse, Republican. They agreed on opposition to the Vandenberg compromise.

They felt that the military liaison committee would in effect dominate the control of atomic energy.
Military men could raise the
security issue on little or no pretext, and the map in the White House responsible for the nation's defense would find it difficult or impossible to turn them down.

Sees Fight In House
McMahon suggested that a hard
fight on the floor of the Senate
might defeat the Vandenberg proposal. His democratic colleague
agreed in the next to no time.
"And let's be even more frank,"
Morse injected a harsh note of realism.

"Let's be frank about this," he said. "We won't get 15 votes on the floor of the Senate unless the president throws his weight into the fight. He will have to say that he intends to veto the compromise bill.
And let's be even more frank.
Even if he does that, we won't be likely to get more than 30 votes.
In other words, we're licked. But nevertheless we have to make the record."

Here is perhaps the most critical issue of our time. Yet it is presented in such a way that the public
is left confused and uncertain.
And it is being presented in an atmosphere of threats and counter-
threats of war.

Not Military Control
Senator Vandenberg insists that
his compromise does not give control to the military. He is disturbed
by the original news stories on this

THE FEWER, THE HIGHER

One of the great deceptions propagated and fostered in this country
during twelve years of New Deal
rule is that economics and politics
can successfully be mixed. Almost from its inception, the New Deal
regime undertook to settle problems fundamentally and strictly economic by attacking them from the political angle. The constant appeal of the administration to the masses was through this intermix-
ture of hard facts and loose theories.

As a result, a vast segment of our people have absorbed the idea that
all their financial and personal ills
can be solved by "the government"
through the writing of laws or the issuance of edicts.

Our first great adventure in this program was the attempt to improve conditions by the policy of "scarcity," when crops were piled under and countless thousands of little people slaughtered. Those who complained with the Wallace blinding
of politics and economics were rewarded—absurd as it now seems—
by government bounties for not raising crops or livestock. It didn't work, of course. But that did not stop the program. We have gone a long way since the Wallace fiasco,
and have finally arrived at the point where the government wants
to undertake political control of business and industry by fixing
wages and setting prices.

Through arbitrary interference
with the law of supply and demand, political government, in an ostensible effort to prevent inflation, is actually paving the way for inflation. Price ceilings have halted
or retarded the manufacture and marketing of many commodities. We have read lately, for example, that some three million shirts are being held off the market because they

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:08. Sun rises
tomorrow 6:03.

Sympathy, says the Sheep Hill
philosopher, is what one girl offers
another in exchange for the details.

If things don't brighten up soon
in the building industry, a lot of returning G. I.'s will have to do what a Kansas man has done. He dug himself a home in the side of a cliff. When things come back he plans to use it for a garage.

Some folks are never content with their lot in life. A Meadville man, complained to the Crawford county
court when sentenced to the workhouse for a year and a half for stealing an auto. He said he would rather be sent to the penitentiary.
Judge Clare O. Kent obliged, but made the minimum sentence two
and a half years.

Harold L. Jokes has signed up to become a tickler on a New York
paper. Well he'll be there with a lot of biting humor in his column.

EVERYBODY MUZZLED
A little discomfited man was complaining to his friend about the insistence of his wife in putting onions in all her cooking.

"Why, she serves them raw, fried,
brailed, stewed and in soup. And the darned things always disagree
with me," he moaned.

"Well, it's too bad they don't disagree with your wife, too," the friend comforted him.

"Oh, my gosh!" said the little
man. "They wouldn't dare!"

The sickening truth we never
learn is that people who keep us
from being prepared for attack are
not mere pacifists but secret enemy
agents.

You are not consistent; you
praise a man one day and criticize
him the next. But only blind partisans think anything all good or
all bad.

A local woman thought she heard
prowlers around the house recently
and forced her husband to get up and look. Still sleepy, he picked up
various dark corners and closets,
and soon came sounds of combat
and "Turn on the lights," he shouted to his wife. When she did she doubled up with laughter. Friend hubby
was locked in mortal combat with her old dress dummy. They haven't been speaking for a long time now.

Mrs. Luce learned that a smart-witscrack or good looks will make
the headlines, but a serious speech
is ignored unless the speaker is news.

To the President: Opponents call
it "Truman floor," but don't be alarmed. If it saves the starving,
accept the name and be proud of it.

There are no greater bores than those who insist on being right while visiting us. These are large percentages
of our men because they are allergic to this or that. Of course,
there are some delinquents who eat
breakfast in a dish when they eat
strawberries or lobster, or who become giddy when they eat red meat
or drink wine or malt liquor. This is unfortunate and cannot be helped.
However, those with allergies should decline invitations to large dinner
parties or explain the condition beforehand to the hostess or take a chance and eat what is served.

Just as you should develop a cosmopolitan taste for all sports and
games, you should acquire a cosmopolitan taste for cheese or what not.
Never admit on social occasions that you dislike any food. Especially while trying to win and hold a
mate in marriage, hide food hypo-chondria. And while rearing a child, save it from becoming a spoiled weakling by refusing to yield to such whims as a dislike
for mashed potatoes or rice or other foods that lack the rich flavors of less nourishing foods.

Question: I am about to visit a friend's home for a week-end. How much should I tip her servant?
They are of moderate means and
have only one maid.

Answer: One dollar bill will be sufficient for a week-end in a house
such as you describe. Of course,
should you give the servant many extra chores, such as bringing your breakfast to bed, pressing on seeing for you, her compensation
should be in accordance with the duties performed.

sonal replies to readers enclosing

Justification For Coalition Is Seen

WASHINGTON, March 16.
THAT House and Senate most
of the southern Democrats and most of the Republicans have formed a
"coalition" strong enough to defeat
or enact parts of the Administration program appears to annoy excessively some of our leading publicists and politicians—particularly those whose tendencies are toward
the left.

These work themselves almost in-
to a state of fury over the fact.
They denounce the "coalition" as though it were unpatriotic and degraded. They picture it as wickedly conceived by the most sinister of
men whose sole purpose is to frustrate the great humanitarian efforts of the "true liberals." Of course, it is nothing of the kind.
Actually, the coalition is a natural
and logical joining together for effective action of men who think
and feel alike on most domestic issues. They do happen to be relatively, conservatives, but as yet
there is nothing criminal about that.
As to the moral right of men
who think alike, that for election
purposes happens to occur in the party labels to consult and act together in Congress, it is absurd to have that questioned by the exceedingly volatile radical groups
for the past 10 years have been part of perhaps the strangest and
most incongruous political coalition
in American history.

THE Roosevelt coalition was composed of former Republicans, former Socialists, labor-union leaders, Southern Democrats and northern negroes. Communists cracked the big city bosses, the so-called intelligentsia along with all the reds,
religions and phobias in the country.
This was no natural coalition. This was a combination of men who think alike. It was an unusual combination of men fundamentally
far apart but welded together on election day by the compelling power
of the party label and the cohesive quality of selfish interests. Despite his immense prestige, Mr. Roosevelt could not hold it together because he elected and had lost control
of Congress before the war came on.
Compared with that coalition, the present coalition is honest and straightforward. There was neither hypocrisy nor candor about the other.
So far from being inimical to the national interest, the present coalition in some ways at least, will be beneficial. It is by no means ideal.
It will make mistakes and probably
it will do some damage and the men in it are not all noble and unselfish.

BUT the chances are it will do more good than harm. For example, without this coalition no emergency
tax legislation would have been passed. And without this coalition up hill opposed by the labor
lobby would stand a chance of pass-

One of the biggest assignments

the forwarding tests of the atom-

America's rapidly expanding commercial airlines at home and overseas are planning on tripling their passenger-carrying capacity this year.

United States airlines now have
on order or on option to buy a fleet of 1,414 aircraft with a total capacity of 38,184 passengers.

When this fleet gets into operation,
by the end of 1946 it is expected
to pile up 10 billion passenger
miles annually compared with the 1945 total of three billion 325 million
annual passenger miles.

Pan American, for instance, is planning on two flights daily between the Pacific coast and Hawaii
in the near future.

UNO To Be Efficient
American and TWA expect to boost their trans-Atlantic service
within the next few months, depending on the speed with which four-engine planes come off the assembly lines.

All lines are concentrating on
safety measures on overseas flights
to overcome the natural reluctance
of passengers to fly over water in land planes.

The salaries paid United Nations
Organization workers when headquarters are established in the United States will not be great.

They will, however, be enough to attract sufficient workers. The gimmick in this arrangement lies in taxes. The general plan is that workers will be guaranteed a "home
take home" pay. If he is British,
French or any other nationality,
UNO will take care of his taxes at home.

This, if he gets $6,000 a year, it will be clear profit. If his home government should impose say, a 50 per cent income tax, the UNO
will pay that tax.

He will be free of United States
income taxes and, presumably, with diplomatic status, will not have to pay tariffs on Scotch whisky,
French wines, Cuban cigars or other
goods which he might wish to import.

He would, of course, have to pay
sales taxes on goods bought in New York even though this might be lifted if the residences of delegates
and employees of UNO were regarded as outside the city.

But on second thought, I don't think I shall.

Navy Believes Merger Battle Is Won
Many Want To Be In On Atomic Test
Clothes And Meat To Cost More Soon

(Special to Central Press)

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The
navy feels it has licked the proposal
for its merger with the army. It may be right, although the "top
brass" of the war department continues its fight.

Legislation toward unifying the armed services is piling up in the House committee on executive department expenditures. The committee has held hearings on the matter but observers close to the group say that a bill will not be brought out in the near future.

In addition, it is reported that President Truman, who endorsed
the merger, has spoken his final piece on the issue. The navy, in its anti-merger battle, has urged coordination instead of unification.

A proposal along these lines may be brought out by a three-man subcommittee of the Senate military affairs committee which is re-
examining the merger bill introduced
by Senator Lester B. Old (Alabama).

Secretary of the Navy James For-restal had planned to resign his post
but changed his mind when he saw the merger fight coming up. A big opponent of unification, Forrestal
may quit as soon as he is convinced the proposal has been defeeted.

Meanwhile the navy proposes to make the coming atom bomb tests
in the Marshall Islands an example
of peace-time coordination.

Attractive Program At Youth For Christ

Magician-Evangelist, Singing Gospel Team And Instrumental Music On Youth Program

Saturday evening Youth for Christ allies, which are held each week in the First Methodist church, Jefferson at North streets, will continue tonight with a varied program of Gospel vocal and instrumental numbers, coupled with a message of Rev. E. K. Land, Christian Magician and minister.

Rev. Land, was formerly on the stage, and was an outstanding magician, appearing all over the country, until his conversion to Christianity. He performs for a number of minutes to his audience, before he brings his message.

Included on tonight's Youth program, which is scheduled to get underway at 8 o'clock, will be Smith and Rogers, a singing Gospel team, who are appearing in the city and will be heard in vocal selections. Robert Mattacks, will be featured in a trumpet solo.

During the evening, Mary Virginia Mooney will direct the "This Is Life" Ensemble, a group of young ladies made up from various churches of the city. Joe Proctor will again direct the song service, with Marie Zook, at the piano and McNeill, leading the program. Plans are almost completed for the appearance of Rev. Percy Crawford, nationally known young people leader and president of King's College, New Castle, Delaware. Rev. Crawford and his young people's quartet, will be heard Friday evening, March 22, in the Cathedral auditorium, at 7:30 o'clock, under the sponsorship of the local Youth for Christ group.

MISSION

(We are quoting what E. E. SHELLHAMER says concerning the use of SEVERITY.)

We like God, must not wink at sin or irreverence. But it is easy to become unbalanced and let the human element get in. Then we become HARSH and DRIVING in VOICE and MANNER and thus fail to reach some. This may seem to be a little thing, but friend, it is a SERIOUS THING to SEND A SOUL TO HELL who might have been reached had there been more TENDERNESS manifested. God forbid that I should GET OUT OF THE SPIRIT and REBUKE even a SCOFFER in such a way that he would NEVER RETURN. Saul of Tarsus might not have been saved had Stephen turned and pronounced a STINGING REBUKE upon him.—E. E. Shellhamer. YOUR DOCTRINE MAY BE PERFECT BUT IT WILL NEVER MAKE AN IMPRESSION ON OTHERS UNLESS WE SHOW LOVE.

We specialize in teaching holiness of heart and life.

IMPORTANCE OF CORRECT SPEECH!

WHAT do you know about Jesus?
What DO you know about Jesus?
What do YOU know about Jesus?
What do you KNOW about Jesus?
What do you know ABOUT Jesus?
What do you know about JESUS?
HE is the least talked about man in New Castle.

HEAR THE STORY OF JESUS AT THE CHURCH OF CHRIST. ADMISSION FREE.

Paul says "speak thou the things which benefit sound doctrine . . . sound speech, that cannot be condemned: (Titus 2:8).

"I JOINED THE CHURCH". This is not Bible language. The LORD added to the CHURCH DAILY (not two weeks, or ON "EASTER"—such as should be saved. ACTS 2:47. DAILY.

"GET RELIGION". "GOT RELIGION". The woman that feeds her baby girl to the crocodiles in the Ganges river is religious, what we want people to do is to obey the gospel and become a Christian.

Third Sunday In Pre-Easter Contest For Seventy Schools

Good Progress Is Shown As Campaign Continues; Awards To Be Made

The first two Sundays of the 8-weeks pre-Easter increase campaign being sponsored by the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association, have comprised the best start in attendance of any campaign to date. The weather has been favorable in both cases, and good attendances and high percentages have been the result.

During the war years, a deduction from the previous year's average attendance of 10 per cent has been allowed for those in the service. This year, since most of the servicemen and women are back, there is no deduction and the average attendance for the calendar year, 1945, is being used as the base figure.

The 70 participating Sunday schools are using constructive plans to increase Sunday school attendance pretty generally, and in most cases, the Sunday schools making the best attendance gains are the ones that are best organized. The most popular method seems to be to have the Sunday school divided into two groups, and to carry this division through the classes so that there is not only wholesome competition by the Sunday school as a whole, but also by each individual class.

There are five groups in New Castle, and five groups in districts outside of New Castle, making a total of ten groups in Lawrence County. There will be eleven awards made at the annual church convention, June 12, the extra one being for the best percentage of church attendance in New Castle.

The four goals of the campaign are an increase in Evangelism, an increase in Sunday school attendance, an increase in church attendance and an increase in Bible study. The fourth goal should especially be emphasized, and one of the best means to encourage daily Bible reading by members of the Sunday school. This practice has constructive benefits, for as has often been stated, "The Bible will keep many of those reading from sin; sin will keep many from reading the Bible".

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

ing the Senate. Without it, the pro-CIO chairmen of the labor committees in House and Senate could continue with impunity to smother bills which a majority of Congress and of the people favor, just as the Senate judiciary committee continues to smother the Hobbs anti-racketeering bill, twice passed by the House. The only hope of getting such bills through lies in this combination of Republicans and southern Democrats.

SO, TOO, the only hope of curtailing governmental waste, instituting real economy and approaching an actual budget balance, rests upon this coalition of conservatives. It is true it has blocked—and will block—some of the Administration programs. It may unwisely hamstring the OPA. But aside from that, some of the Administration program should be blocked. For example, a national service was performed when this coalition emasculated the foolish so-called full employment bill, which would have opened the door to vast new public expenditures and taken a great stride away from the private-enterprise system.

AND it will be right if in the Senate it lines up against the $65,000,000 federal school lunch expansion program and against a number of other Administration-backed bills which call for increased expenditures for nonessential projects. The plain truth is that whatever is obtained at this session in the way of reduction in the size and cost of the Federal bureaucracy will come through this coalition. And what, if anything, in the way of legislation is enacted to place responsibility upon labor unions to curb their excesses and diminish strikes, will be because of the coalition, not because of the Administration. In brief, the Administration left to itself, will carry out the Roosevelt policies. This would mean no labor legislation not sanctioned by the CIO and a continuation of unrestrained spending.

THERE is no intention here to endorse everything this coalition does. Undoubtedly, it will commit sins both of omission and commission. Through unwise leadership it may defeat sound proposals behind which the President has put his weight. Nevertheless, it appears the only instrument by which some genuinely bad propositions can be blocked and some really good ones put through. Some of the best men in the two parties are among its members. And the idea that it is malignant is not cherished by the unprejudiced and informed.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

up songs and tunes very quickly after hearing them. But I can understand her attitude toward her piano practice. Please help me in the enclosed stamped envelope.

Psychologist Replies

As I wrote this mother, I have no doubt she tried to be very calm and patient with this child. While she may have been so outwardly calm inwardly and the youngster sensed it.

I advise her to have the child do all her practicing with the teacher for the next several months, three or four times a week, or until such time as she may be ready to practice alone at the teacher's dictation. It may take this child several months to gain enough accurate skill to play a selection well enough to enjoy doing it right, yet mastery of the fundamentals of piano music will cost her some drudgery.

When any child begins to practice alone he should be expected, and effectively required, to practice only as the teacher instructs. If the parents do not have enough music skill and knowledge to ascertain when the practice is done correctly, she should leave the matter to the discretion of the teacher.

The only thing the parent can do is to see that the child does the practice regularly and for a definite period daily. Let the requirement not be a matter of lawing but assentment of the child to do nothing for about three times as long as the practice would require. This really being in line of the practice for that day. Then, if the child has a reasonable amount of musical talent, he should find the practice less and less repellent, even shifting slowly toward satisfaction from the resulting satisfaction from success.

Let parents quit assuming that the average child can be stimulated to want to practice especially in the earlier stages, and not be so foolish as to suppose the youngster who is eager to have an instrument and lessons on it will faithfully practice without effective requirement. Let's face reality!

Monetary Conference Will Have Battle On Admittance Of Italy

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 16.—(INS)—War-torn Greece was expected today to precipitate a major battle over the admission of a former enemy nation, Italy, into the Bank and Fund at the world Bank-Fund Conference.

Xenophon Zolotas, Greek governor of the Bank and Fund, indicated he would urge a boycott of Italy until the Rome government signs a treaty with the Allies and full agreement is reached on war reparations.

Conferences authorities expressed the belief that Yugoslavia would be quick to join in the anti-Italian move because of its long-standing diplomatic wrangles with Rome. Italy's unofficial application for Japs had.

Richmond Has New Scheme To Take Care Of Housecleaning

RICHMOND, Va., March 16 (INS)—Spring housecleaning, that great seasonal bugaboo which sweeps the country with throbbing little, itching backs, domestic disorder and strained family relationships, is about to embark on its annual epidemic.

And, due to a nationwide dearth of domestic help, there is no doubt but that this spring its ravages will be the worst in history.

So across the country harried housewives and henpecked husbands might like to hear the story of Horace W. Gillison, Jr., and his "perpetual home care service plan"—a sweet and streamlined a little mutual benefit scheme as ever solved a community's postwar problem.

It might succeed in your city, too.

Works Like Insurance
It works like insurance. Householders pay on a monthly basis and the premium guarantees regular cleaning and repair work, done by a crew of domestic specialists. It also provides maid, janitor and handyman service, not to mention mowing the lawn, tending the furnace and doing other odd jobs.

It operates on a year-round contract basis and there are separate plans covering the care of apartments, office buildings and churches. At first Richmond residents raised their eyebrows. Now they're raising the money to hire Horace's help. But let's back-track on the story somewhat.

Horace Gillison is a slight bespectacled, intense Negro war veteran who was born 31 years ago over in Madison county, Va. There were eleven other children in the family which meant that Horace was "hired out" just about as soon as his eager eyes were high enough to look over a table-top.

During the next few years, he was yard-boy, handy-man, butler and chauffeur in some 20 states and became an expert on domestic duties.

Returns To Richmond
He came back to make Richmond his home a few years ago and was getting pretty well known around town as a dependable worker when the war interfered and took a couple of years out of his life.

They handed Horace his discharge papers last October and he came home to Richmond—to find a domestic help dilemma.

"There just wasn't enough to go around," he says. "Quite a few colored people had come back from war plants and other wartime jobs, but they didn't want to go back into household service on a 24-hour-a-day, low-paid basis. Still domestic work was about all they knew, except for their special war jobs."

So Horace decided to straighten the situation out. He figured that, with a little training on special tasks, there was enough available domestic help in Richmond to meet the householders' heaviest needs, provided it was concentrated only on the essential jobs.

He set out to hire that available labor and inaugurated his "perpetual home care service plan."

Working Well
Thus far, it's working well enough that local newspapers have carried somewhat startled stories about its success, and inquiries have come in from Pittsburgh, Boston, Baltimore and elsewhere over the country.

For a monthly fee, which depends on the size of house or apartment and how much service is wanted—the household gets, at regular intervals: windows washed, curtains washed, stretched and rehung, floors cleaned and waxed, furniture vacuumed, woodwork and kitchen and bathroom walls washed and basement cleaned.

Lawn and furnace tending and handyman service comes under separate contracts, as do the office, church and club cleaning arrangements. Temporary maid and butler service also is available.

Workers are divided into specialized units, varying from floor-waxing to carpentry. There's a streamlined janitorial, handy-man and trouble-shooter service always on call.

"By coordinating and specializing what labor is available, we're able to give adequate trained help to householders for their essential jobs," Horace explains, "and provide steady work on a regular eight-hour daily basis for Negro houseworkers."

During the first few lean months, he lost a lot of money—most of his wartime savings, in fact. But gradually Richmonders began to realize they couldn't hire full-time domestic help and called on Horace. Also, a good many business and professional men around town have shown a strange recent anxiety lest the venture fail, and are helping Horace underwrite it. Otherwise...

Nope, it's not long until spring housecleaning.

Makes Good On Threat, Murders Wife With Knife

Illinois Man Flies To California, Finds Estranged Wife, Slays Her

LOS ANGELES, March 16.—(INS)—Paul E. Olive, 50-year-old Decatur, Ill., mechanic, was held on suspicion of murder after he allegedly flew 2000 miles from Chicago to slay his wife with a butcher knife.

Police who said they found Olive standing by the beaten and stabbed body of Irene Mary Olive, 46, quoted him as saying:

"I knew what I was doing and I know what the penalty is. I told my wife I would kill her if she ever left me. When I got married I took my marriage vows seriously."

Olive came to Los Angeles by plane in an attempt to convince Mrs. Olive she should return to Decatur with him. After a four-hour discussion at the home of the slain woman's sister, Mrs. Harry B. Youtz, Olive allegedly beat Mrs. Olive over the head with a bottle, stuffed a washcloth into her mouth and then stabbed her three times.

Wallace Admits Theory Was Wrong

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(INS)—Secretary of Commerce Wallace in effect admitted today he was wrong last November when he said the automobile industry could grant a 15 per cent wage increase without raising prices.

Wallace in a statement said his November pronouncement had not been intended as "an official forecast of costs, profits or prices."

He admitted that the report had caused "much controversy," and explained it had been "based on a study by Harold Wein, an economist."

The commerce secretary said: "The study was intended as a projection based on specific and varying assumptions to point to the kind of problems involved in the analysis of cost, price and profit relationship."

Department Shows Up Well In First Call For Brush Fire During Past Week

West Pittsburg's new fire department is continuing to grow with 14 new members having been enrolled recently, and the department met its first test during the past week, when it answered a call to the Baldwin home on Baldwin's hill. A grass and brush fire threatened outbuildings at the Baldwin fire, and the blaze was extinguished by the department before any damage could be done. Ten men answered the call.

Leaders Of G.M. Strike Approve Settlement Terms
DETROIT, March 16.—(INS)—The next step in resumption of production in General Motors depended today on rank-and-file members of the United Automobile Workers, CIO.

Leaders of the 175,000 workers who struck in 94 G. M. plants for 113 days approved terms to end the walkout, 182 to 18, yesterday. Workers in the plants, if 50 cities throughout the nation, will begin balloting on the new contract tomorrow.

Union leaders pressed for quick ratification, but local grievances threatened to delay resumption of production in Michigan plants and in other states.

Believes UNO Should Meet In Daily Sessions
WASHINGTON, March 16.—(INS)—Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R-Mich., told the senate Friday he believed the security council of the United Nations Organization should be in continuous session during such days as those "when trouble is afoot."

The Republican delegate to the recent London UNO meeting said it was "unfortunate" that the security council was not meeting "day by day, hour by hour" to handle critical questions such as those which have arisen in recent weeks.

Carmen Expected To Attract Opera Lovers Tuesday Eve

San Carlo Opera Company Will Bring All-Star Cast Here For Cathedral Performance

Grand opera lovers will have an opportunity of hearing one of the great operas of the ages here on Tuesday evening, when the San Carlo Opera Company appears here for the production of Carmen at popular prices.

Carmen, with a setting in Spain, is an opera in four acts, founded on the novel by Prosper Merimes, and is sung in French, the scene being Seville, Spain, about the year 1820, and the action evolves around a gypsy cigarette girl, Carmen; Don Jose, a brigadier; Escamillo, a torreador; and Micaela, a peasant girl. Carmen pays with her life for her fickleness.

Singing the role of Escamillo, will be Mostyn Thomas, famous Welsh baritone, well known to local music lovers, particularly those of Welsh extraction, many of whom know him and have heard him sing before.

Mostyn's father died before he was born, and he went to work at a tender age in the coal mines to help support the modest home. By the time he was 13 he had saved five pounds for the beginning of his musical education, but music-lovers, attracted by the great beauty of his voice, guaranteed him his training, and he did not fall their trust, rising to the pinnacle of grand opera. He sings all the rugged parts in the presentations of the San Carlo Opera Company, and friends here will be thrilled by his part as Escamillo in Carmen.

DEMAND ACTION ON DISMISSALS

House Military Committee Demands
Discharge Of Some Employees
In State Department

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(INS)—Members of a House Military Affairs subcommittee indicated today that if the State department fails to take action on their suggestion to discharge employees with "pro-Soviet leanings" they will "name names and bring the entire matter out into the open."

The committee itself maintained official silence on Secretary of State Byrnes' denial that he had been requested to take such action.

But committee members, who preferred to remain anonymous, reiterated their disclosure that Byrnes personally had been supplied with evidence that former War department intelligence employees, removed because of "pro-Soviet leanings," had found positions in the State department's intelligence division.

They elaborated on their charge to state that these employees, while still in the War department, had conspired to withhold from the then Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall, intelligence reports dealing with Russia.

THE WORLD AND THE MUD PUDDLES

cannot be sold under existing ceilings except at a loss or inadequate profit. Eggs are going to waste because, owing to low price ceilings, manufacturers are not interested in making cases to ship or store them. The whole country is suffering from a butter famine because low ceiling prices on butter make it more profitable for dairymen to sell their butter fat for other uses. Periodically, we see shortages in this or that line due to the fact that low ceilings take away the incentive for production. All these things not only cause inconvenience and annoyance, but they actually make for inflation, because inflation is the result of a plentifulness of money and a scarcity of things which money will buy.

One of the New Deal's big adventures in mixing politics and economics was the devaluation of the dollar, which automatically increased the cost of living by making the dollar buy less goods. Under a political program designed to win and hold the so-called "labor vote" the New Deal enforced the closed shop in war industries while its agencies brought about a skyrocketing in wages. With the end of the war it was necessary for the administration to back the demands of organized labor, openly or secretly, for wage increases in key industries. The result has been a series of work stoppages that bring inflation still closer, due to the shortage of industry's commodities and the inevitable increase in prices to meet these wage demands.

According to the government's own figures, we already have seen inflation to the extent of 33 per cent—the official statement of the increase in living costs. As a consequence every bond, every security, every trust fund, every insurance policy in the country has been devalued by just that amount, because they are worth only what they represent in commodities.

Politics says you can take money from the people in taxes or loans on bonds, pass it out by the billions in the guise of "giving" the people this or that; economics says it can't be done. Politics says you can appease a vast voting group by promising higher wages and at the same time lower prices for commodities; economics says it can't be done.

It will be a hard lesson—perhaps impossible to teach—but unless the American people learn once and for all that politics and economics will not mix they sooner or later are going to pay a terrific price for their ignorance.

DR. N. M. BUTLER HAS LOST SIGHT

NEW YORK, March 16.—(INS)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, renowned educator, has lost his sight. The 83-year-old President Emeritus of Columbia university disclosed his blindness in a letter to the Metropolitan club explaining his inability to deliver the welcoming address at the club's luncheon in honor of Winston Churchill.

Former Mayor LaGuardia took Dr. Butler's place on the program.

proposal which said that the military liaison group would have a right to "review" all steps taken by the civilian atomic commission. That implied the right of veto. According to Vandenberg, the president's decision on all matters would be final. The senator from Michigan feels that this gives less to the military than the revised McMahon bill, which would make the secretaries of war, navy and state ex-officio members of the civilian atomic commission. It does seem to me, however, that the Vandenberg proposal puts an impossible burden on any president. Surely there should be ample protection for security with the navy, war and state departments represented on the commission. The desire of military men to keep atomic energy as a weapon of international rivalry is so strong that one can be sure "security" would crop up at every turn.

Prevented From Reading Paper. Just this week, a physicist had prepared a paper on the effect of slow neutrons on the human body to be read at a scientific meeting at Atlantic City. Because he had been connected with the Oak Ridge project, he was prevented by military censorship from reading the paper, although it was discovered later that a digest had already been printed in the program of the meeting. That is the kind of "security" issue which would come up to an already overburdened president. It was not alone military control over atomic energy that the senators discussed at their strategy lunch. They discussed what to several seemed to be the growing pattern of military authority in civilian posts.

Morse pointed to the implications of sending a general as ambassador to the Soviet Union at a time like the present. Others brought up the way in which military men are being appointed to regional and state offices having charge of surplus property disposal. This is taking place even though several senators have tried to stop such appointments in their own states.

"The army has nothing to fear from civilian control," Morse told an audience in Baltimore the other night, "but civilians have everything to fear from army control over any civilian matter."

His large audience broke into spontaneous applause. It was a sign of the concern—and the sense of futility—that so many people feeling the face of a shift of power that seems to be taking place.

Teachers Hear Talk By Sponsor Of Salary Bill

Assemblyman Fred Hare Addresses
350 In Washington Auditorium
Friday Afternoon

"Educational policy of the state must not only be abreast of industry, but ahead of it: the development of education must be the grounds for citizenship," declared the Hon. Fred P. Hare, Jr., at a group of 350 New Castle and Lawrence county teachers in the auditorium of George Washington junior high school Friday afternoon.

Mr. Hare, who spoke under the auspices of the local branch of the P. S. E. A., is an assemblyman from Somerset county, and co-sponsor of the new salary bill for the teaching profession of the state. According to P. S. E. A. President Joseph Hartman who introduced Mr. Hare, the assemblyman has been a class room teacher and an administrator as well as a member of the General Assembly.

"Books and Peace"
Stressing the unusual importance of education at the present time, Mr. Hare quoted Stassen's remark: "Peace will be determined when the people of the world open the books of the world."
"We must develop citizens whose thinking is on a greater scale and can grasp things better, and the challenge of intolerance must be met by education," continued the speaker.

Mr. Hare pointed out that Pennsylvania is now spending one-third of its income for education.
The state appropriation for 1945 was $225,000,000, as compared to $75,000 in 1830.
Since passage of House Bill 568 enacted into act No. 403, Pennsylvania has moved from 9th place among the states of the United States to a much higher position.

White, however, was quick to point out that the $12,000 yearly salary to be paid Mikan, will be for Big George's basketball services exclusively.

Bill Tilden Can Still Sock Them

The 53-year-old former titlist showed flashes of his old form and confounded his opponents with his famed cannonball serve. He replaced Don Budge, singles challenger, on the court.

Earlier, Riggs, world's tennis champion, defeated Budge 6-2 and 6-1.

Bowling Congress Gets Under Way

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 16.—The 43rd annual American Bowling Congress championship entered its customary early period of modest scores here today as booster teams and "Average Bowler" took command of the drives.

Although definite leaders for all minor events were logged during the initial session of the doubles and singles yesterday their scores, along with the 2831 posted by Wickline Motors of Charleston, W. Va., to lead the team efforts, will be far down the eventual list of prize winners.

John Castagnino and Tony Laska of Jamestown, N. Y., rolled into a deadlock with the James O'Dell-Smith combine of Hamilton, O., for the doubles lead with 1307.

Meyer Larsey of Morgan, N. J., assumed command of the singles with a steady 674 and Dick Hobbs of Lima, O., paced the all-events field with a 573-595-675-1843 aggregate.

Eighteen holes were listed for today and 36 tomorrow.

Snead, the defending champion, opened the 18-hole round yesterday with a neat 31 on the first nine and a 33 on the back stretch.

His 64 was one stroke under the municipal course record.

Physicist Raps Army's Seeking Atomic Control

Says Military Men Want To Conduct Experiments To Insure "Peacetime" Job

PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—(INS)—A charge that the Army was seeking control of atomic energy experiments in order to maintain wartime appropriations was made today by Dr. Roy K. Marshall, director of the Fels planetarium in Philadelphia.

One of the nation's most prominent astro-physicists, Dr. Marshall labeled the Army's efforts to obtain control of atomic energy experiments as a "grave train" to insure a "peacetime job" for the military.

He attacked legislation before Congress as likely to result in a "strike" by the nation's leading scientists who would refuse to work under Army "regimentation and supervision."

"More than 90 per cent of the real scientists who worked on the Manhattan project have left for that reason," he said.

Penalties for endeavors in restricted research which would range up to $300,000 and 30 years in jail will deter leading scientists from "free experimentation," he added.

To Become Tail-Enders

"We will become tail-enders in the post-war scientific parade," Marshall declared. "Such moves on the part of the government will see the voluntary exile of scientists from the United States to European or Asiatic laboratories where they can work in atmospheres free from military dictation."

Marshall explained that the suggested military control of atomic energy research is a "natural reaction of the Army and Navy following the war. Both fear an immediate cut in appropriations and here's a grave train so they can be sure they'll have a peacetime job."

He warned, however, that "Army control would be a lovely opportunity for political shenanigans and cut throats if all experimental-

tion is to be licensed, and a black market in scientific information will surely arise."

Marshall pointed out: "The progress of pure science has been sadly neglected during the war except for military purposes. We have to pick up the loose ends in an atmosphere of complete freedom with a free interchange of information."

Next To Impossible

"Military control of information for security reasons is next to impossible because any scientific finding can be used by the military, and no one will be able to decide what information should be restricted."

Experience with the atomic bomb project, he said, has amply demonstrated that military control is "inefficient." He pointed out that such a system would lead to "wholesale duplication of effort."

"One scientist might make a discovery which would be tabled as secret, and another man—uninformed of the discovery because of its secret label—would spend much time making the discovery himself only to have it pigeon holed by his military supervisor as for security reasons," Marshall explained.

Marshall declared that "the Army is blind to the fact that the progress of science will be impeded if scientists are treated like industrial workers."

Arctic-Bound Destroyer Hits Polar Hurricane

ABOARD U. S. S. MIDWAY, Off Labrador, March 16.—(INS)—The little destroyer Ware, which accompanied the aircraft carrier Midway on a cruise into the Arctic, checked in by wireless Friday on her experience in a blustery polar hurricane.

And it was quite a story.

For three days the Ware pitched her way in front of a 55-mile an hour typhoon and lopped-the-loop at a 42-degree tilt. She left the Midway escort on March 12 and was one at St. Johns, Nfld., Friday.

The Midway herself felt the storm plenty, losing many of her lifeboats and suffering damage to the galley deck which normally is forty-four feet above the water.

But the Ware really had a time of it. Her skipper, Commander Henry Her of Hyde Park, Mass., assured his deckhands and the Midway that the ice around the destroyer was solid enough to support the ship and he added that she could take a 65-degree roll anyway without going over.

Coast Guard Commander Garrett Graves of Alexandria, Va., reported sighting an iceberg a quarter of a mile long, sixty feet of the Chilly Mountain was above water, meaning that 420 feet lay below. Break-off ice chunks from the berg scraped the Ware's hull.

TURTLE DOVES AND STARLINGS SEEN

In a talk with Dr. A. W. Shevman of English avenue, Owen Fox, city forester was told by Dr. Shevman, who is a bird lover, that he had already seen turtle doves in his back yard. Other folks have also mentioned that their places have been visited by these birds. Owen says these birds do not generally get here before April.

Starlings have begun nesting. Mr. Fox has seen them carrying small twigs into a hole in a tree in Gaston park. This is early for the starlings, as they do not usually appear before the middle of April. During the winter they keep in the heavy woods. They like to mimic the songs of other birds, their favorite mimic is that of the bobwhite or quail.

Hunt Extortionist In Shamokin Area

Charge $5,000 Demanded Under Threats Of Kidnapping Wealthy Man's Daughter

SHAMOKIN, Pa., March 16.—(INS)—A grim search for an extortionist who has reportedly demanded $5,000 from a wealthy retired automobile dealer under threat of kidnapping his two daughters was being pressed today by state police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The blackmailer, police said, demanded the money 10 days ago from Henry Latsha of Hickory Corners, a rural Northumberland county community. The demand was made in a hand-lettered note mailed from Harrisburg, it was learned.

Police would not discuss was progress had been made but Sgt. John Hockreiter of the state police substation at Shamokin claimed "someone had jumped the gun" in publishing the threat.

The extortionist told Latsha to place the money under a rock near a railroad bridge at Dalmatia under threat of kidnapping his two daughters, aged 11 and 15. Absolute secrecy was demanded by the blackmailer.

CLEANLINESS PROMOTES BETTER FAMILY HEALTH
Cleanliness is one protecting factor for better health. Carefully worked out plans for home cleanliness will save time and energy for everyone in the family.
When all members of the family share in the responsibilities of cleaning, the homemaker has more time to take part in other activities, both with the family and in the community.
Besides carefully developed plans for sharing and doing the job, proper supplies and equipment are required. These should be considered for their efficiency, convenience and safety in home use. To save time and energy, both supplies and equipment should be stored near where they will be used.
Analyze the needs when buying new equipment. Frequency of use, cost of upkeep, efficiency, repairs, length of service, and storage facilities should be considered. It usually is better economy to buy good equipment, keep it in repair, and use it for a long period than it is to buy an inferior product.

Starving Peoples Will Need Help Several Years

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 16.—(INS)—Two American statesmen joined Friday in warning America that the job of feeding the starving peoples of the world must continue after the end of this year no matter what the cost.

The statesmen—Herbert H. Lehman, retiring director-general of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, and Rep. Sol. Bloom (D. New York)—made their statements at the opening session of UNRRA's general council.

Shortly after a message was read from President Truman, Bloom told the assembled delegates of the 47 participating nations:

"We don't know what its going to cost, but we must go on."

He added:

"UNRRA just can't fail. Half a billion people are praying to you. You can't stop now and you can't fold at the end of 1946. You must continue."

Lehman, who is retiring as head of UNRRA because of ill health, similarly told the delegates that "I'm confident that in many of our activities a further effort will have to be made after the end of this year."

American Aid To Displaced Persons To End

FRANKFURT, March 16.—(INS)—A reliable American army source disclosed Friday that the war department has informed Gen. Joseph T. McNarney that United States government support of displaced persons in the American zone of occupation in Germany will be discontinued on or before June 30.

The order which covers all "DP's" unable to supply a valid reason for remaining in Germany, assumes all other non-Germans remaining after that date came voluntarily to Germany and have political reasons for refusing to return to their native lands. In their own country, they would probably be considered as collaborators.

Under the new system outlined by the war department to the American commander in Europe, DP's who choose to stay in Germany will assume the status of German nationals.

This means they'll be relegated to the status of any German who under military government law must register at the German labor office before a ration card is issued and must find his own lodgings.

George C. Stevens, Yeoman second class, Hilltop avenue, and Harold W. Stanley, MCM-1-C, 619 Arlington avenue, have been released from the naval service at Sampson, New York.

S-1st Joseph Williams, R. D. 2, New Castle, has received his discharge from the armed forces after 22 months of service in the European theater of operations.
